

THE RECORDINGS OF PIKE DAVIS

An Annotated Tentative Personnelo - Discography

DAVIS, 'Pike' Clifton, trumpet born: Baltimore, Maryland, 1896; died: Baltimore, Maryland, Sep. 13, 1976
Worked in Baltimore with Eubie Blake in 1915, then joined pianist Joe Rochester. In 1921 and 1922 worked in band led by violinist LeRoy Smith, then joined the Plantation Revue and visited London (1923). Worked for Ford Dabney, and played on various vaudeville tours, again with LeRoy Smith before rejoining the Plantation Revue, visited London with this company in 1926. Worked in the USA with the Plantation Revue, returned to Europe with Noble Sissle in May 1929. Returned to New York, worked with Joe Jordan (summer 1930). From 1931 until 1934 worked in the 'Rhapsody In Black' show, then joined Lew Leslie's 'Blackbirds' and again returned to Europe in August 1934. Continued show work for many years, then returned to Baltimore. During the early 1960s continued to play, working mainly in Rivers Chambers' Orchestra. (John Chilton, Who's Who of Jazz)

STYLISTICS

STYLE

Pike Davis' style is characterised by the emphasis on hard hit quarter notes with little off-beat elements, and a lack of sensitivity and smooth performing of melodies with eighth- and shorter notes. His solos use simplified phrases of the melodic material, these performed in a ragtime derived strong and impressive staccato way. He owns a ragtime-derived style owing a lot to Johnny Dunn. Belonging to a group of theatre and show musicians in Harlem he must have been a perfect sight-reader and reliable band musician.

TONE

Davis displays a sharp and biting, urgent tone, strong, short and peppery.

VIBRATO

His vibrato is fast and of little amplitude, just like that of many early Harlem trumpeters.

TIME

As one of the leading New York theater and show trumpet players Davis has a perfectly exact and driving time.

PHRASING

His phrasing in ad-lib parts is astonishingly simple and clear, yet unimaginative, but effective and striking.

This personnelo-discography is based on RUST, JAZZ AND RAGTIME RECORDS 1897 - 1942.

Personnels are taken from this source, but modified in the light of earlier or subsequent research or on the strength of my own listening, discussed with our listening group or other interested collectors.

- Documented, most certain and aurally absolutely obvious identifications are listed thus: Pike Davis
- Probable, generally agreed, but not documented identifications are listed in italics, thus: Pike Davis
- Not attributable identifications – although the musician in question might be an otherwise well-known person – are listed thus: unknown
- If a possible identification for an otherwise unknown musician is suggested by the author without the possibility to prove the factual evidence, it is listed thus: (Pike Davis)

When feeling certain without a musician's documented presence, I have not refrained from altering Rust's statements without using italics. In any case, my statements are open to discussion and I would appreciate any contribution - pro or contra!

As always in my discographies on this website I have written recording sessions with their headings, dates, titles and names of musicians in italics, whenever I am convinced that the eponymous musician of this discography is not part of the accompanying group of this session! Documented names of musicians if known – in recording ledgers or on record labels – are listed in bold letters.

This discography still is - and will certainly be - a work in progress for a long time, if not eternally. Yet, on the way to a definite discography of all jazz recordings before 1942 - which certainly will never be possible - it is intended to fill some gaps that have not been treated before.

Luckily, I own a copy of the 'Bugle Call Blues' recording. The item plays ten blues chorusses, the first seven of them containing the well-known four-bar military bugle calls in variations, followed by 8 bars of band ensembles with very prominent alto sax mainly playing long sustained chordal notes. These seven chorusses are succeeded by three chorusses played without the military calls, the second chorus of them being played in Bb minor, all other ones in Bb major. Pike Davis with his strong, short and peppery tone is the trumpet soloist, who might be relieved in the fifth chorus where the trumpet sounds softer and might thus be Wesley Johnson. Chorusses 6 and 7 certainly are Davis again. The trombonist is buried in the ensemble and can thus not be identified. But at the bottom of the band sound a strong trombonist can be realized. Rust has John Reeves on trombone, but as for Mark Berresford's reference in Storyville 143 (see below) Reeves died on 7 April 1922 and he may or may not be on this session.

There are no improvisational efforts of the participating musicians. Thus, Herschel Brassfield's presence cannot be secured, but is very probable.

Leroy Smith's band was Detroit's number one colored band in the early 1920s. Smith's music is more of the "symphonic jazz" kind than music for dancing and entertainment. Mr. Smith is said to have billed himself as the colored Paul Whiteman and was reluctant in granting room for ad-lib improvisation in his band.

Unfortunately, two of the recorded titles of this session have not been reissued up to now.

There is a very strong brass section on these sides – especially when Pike Davis plays the ride-out. I only hear two saxes on these sides – alto and tenor! Thus I assume that Harold Henson is not on this date. In 'Harlem's Araby' Stan Peters plays a 16-bars tenor solo (Strain B) which is immediately followed by a bass-clarinet solo, which would mean that Emerson Harper is the bass-clarinetist. And in Verse 1 of 'Stop And Listen' I believe to hear a c-melody-sax that may be played by either saxophonist.

The fabulous Jazz Oracle CD cited above contains two different takes of 'Harlem's Araby', a take -B which I assume to be recorded second, and then a take T2017-2. Is this meant to be a test recording because of the 'T'? Sadly, this is not commented on in the booklet. But because of the little freedom – or inaccuracies – the first chair trumpet player – obviously Frank Belt – takes, I assume this take to be cut first. But, it may also be seen conversely: first, the take played strictly from scores, and the little freedom in the alternate take. Who knows?

Hear Pike Davis' fiery and urgent trumpet playing, much in the Johnny Dunn manner. This is one of probably only 12 recording sessions he was part of.

And listen to Hardwick's dominant position in the band. Irvis shows his individual legato style with long phrases, often displaying his strange and old-fashioned 6/8 phrasing.

The 'Plantation Orchestra' are the original pit-band of Lew Leslie's show 'Plantation Revue' of 1926 which appeared in London in September 1926 with the title 'The Blackbirds Revue' starring the famous Florence Mills. Consequently, these sides were issued by British Columbia exclusively.

These sides present a lot of professional legitimate instrumental work, but rather little jazz improvisation. Yet, the work of the two trumpet players – Johnny Dunn on open horn, but a little retained, and Pike Davis on loud and aggressive muted horn – show a remarkable performance all through this session. The latter player has the first chair duties on all these sides.

This again is Pike Davis in a strong and effective show band – Noble Sissle and his Orchestra, recorded in England and reissued early on on a nice Parlophone LP 'Jazz In Britain – The 20's' (Parlophone PMC 7075).

From Anthony Barnett's "dossier" 'Fallen From the Moon – Juice Wilson, his life on earth', I have come to know that the hitherto unknown top-part singer behind Noble Sissle on 'Kansas City Kitty' is banjo player Warren Harris.

The most interesting sounds on these sides, yet, come from a little known but brilliant jazz violin player from St. Louis, who spent his early years in Chicago and later toured the world, being utmost modest and reticent, and never receiving any appropriate recognition. Bill Coleman termed him "the greatest jazz violinist that ever lived" (A. Barnett, Fallen from the Moon).

For me, there still is another high-light on these sides: Henry "Bass" Edwards, the tuba player. He really is tremendous.

Rust*6 has William Thornton Blue here again! The quirky clarinetist in 'My Honey's Lovin' Arms' certainly is Arville Harris in William-Thornton-Blue-style. He had obviously been asked to take over Thornton Blue's enthusiastic style, but he certainly could not reach Blue's mastery and skill.

Reuben Reeves in pure Louis Armstrong style, aurally replacing Dickerson. Very nice! Possibly Pike Davis on second trumpet as on the subsequent session, soloing on 'Sweet Georgia Brown'. Pike Davis on second trumpet is recalled by Calloway himself (B. Englund, VJM c. 131) and might also be on this session.

Rust*6 has William Thornton Blue here again! The quirky clarinetist again is Arville Harris in William-Thornton-Blue-style. Again, Harris owns a lot of technique, but he cannot come close to Thornton Blue. His attempts may have caused somebody to assume Blue's presence in the Calloway band at this time in late 1931.

Pike Davis on second trumpet is recalled by Calloway himself (B. Englund, VJM c. 131)

There is not much jazz soloistic on these sides, which are mainly commercial Calloway, but that is what it was meant to be.

I hear nice guitar by Moris White and four-four tuba by the band's former leader, Jimmy Smith. Re the muted/growled trumpet bits in the first title: I am in doubt as to the performer. I assume them to be by Reuben Reeves because of the fast trills, but I haven't heard him growling before. Pike Davis, who apparently did the muted trumpet work on the former session, plays with fewer notes when soloing. If Davis is not with the Calloway band anymore, who then is the second trumpet player?

The Chronological Classics CD 526 claims to have 11016-1 and 11018-1, whereas my Jazum 29 LP claims to have 11016-2 and 11018-2. On either records I am unable to detect any differences. Unfortunately, the JSP CD908B issue does not note takes, but sounds identical, too. I thus assume that the Jazum LP notes are incorrect. Either take -2 is remastered from Perfect 15572 as noted on the LP cover. May this have lead to an error?

B. Englund hears a kazoo in 'Stack O'Lee Blues', but there definitely is none, but there is exquisite muted playing by both trombonists and one of the trumpeters.

'Minnie The Moocher'

This Betty Boop cartoon of the Paramount Publix Corp. is the first known film with Cab Calloway and his Orchestra. The personnel of the band in the opening sequence is that of c. September/October 1931, in that there still is Earres Prince on piano and probably Pike Davis on trumpet – he plays the beautiful solo in 'St. James Infirmary', and the facial features are his as may be recognised. The second trombone is missing, which would terminate filming into February 1931 before Harry White's joining the band. But possibly, White was not accessible for the film cuts in later 1931.

Here we find the Calloway band in a fine film sequence with great visual brilliance, Leroy Maxey doing drum-stick acrobatics without touching his drums. Thanks to preceding recording of the sound-track, we can yet hear the full band sound. And listen to the final parts of the short 'Tiger Rag' sequence with the use of the arrangement of 'Vine Street Drag' (the final bars only), which still dates from the 'Missourians' days.

There is a nice muted trumpet solo after Cab's vocal that could well be by Pike Davis playing the melody of 'Cabin In The Cotton'.

What a nice swinging rhythm section they have with Jimmy Smith on slap-bass and Leroy Maxey with his snare-drum and traps.

B-11725-A Minnie The Moocher's Wedding Day

After Cab Calloway's success with 'Minnie The Moocher' – his brain-child and immense source of income - the Mills organization were eager to find suitable successors to this hit title. White composers/texters Harold Arlen and Ted Koehler were successful in thinking out this attractive tune which was copied and used by other bands later on.
