

THE RECORDINGS OF WARD PINKETT

An Annotated Tentative Discography

Pinkett, "Ward" William, trumpet, vocals, born: Newport News, 29th April 1906, died: New York City, 15th March, 1937. His sister, Loretta (a saxophonist), once led her own band in Newport News; their father (a taylor) played cornet as a hobby. Started on trumpet at the age of 10, later went to Hampton Institute, Virginia, and played in the school band; to New Haven Conservatory of Music in Meridian, Mississippi, for further studies. Joined White Brothers Orchestra in Washington, D.C., then went to New York with a travelling show. Briefly with Charlie Johnson at Small's, New York, then joined Willie Gant's Orchestra (summer 1926), with Billy Fowler Orchestra before becoming resident musician at James Hogan's Joyland. Worked at Bamboo Inn with bands led by Henry Saparo and Joe Steele, then played for Charlie Skeete and Jelly Roll Morton. Worked with Chick Webb at Bottomland and Renaissance in New York, then with Bingie Madison at Rose Danceland, New York (1931). With bassist Earl Magee's Orchestra before joining Rex Stewart's Band at the Empress ballroom (summer 1933). With Teddy Hill's Band at Lafayette Theatre (1934). During 1935 worked with Albert Nicholas and Bernard Addison at Adrian Rollini's Tap Room, also played briefly in Louis Metcalf's Big Band at the Bedford Ballroom, New York. Died of pneumonia, was buried in his home town. (John Chilton, Who's Who of Jazz)

STYLE

Ward Pinkett owns a very personal expressive style, very hot and urgent. Nothing of the Johnny Dunn mode. He plays like he sings: sometimes almost barking without beauty in the classical sense. He often uses growl sounds and is adept with mutes. And he is a staccato player. Frequent blue playing with many blue notes.

STONE

Hot, strong and fiery tone played with much pressure.

VIBRATO

Irregular, medium to wide vibrato. Frequent use of strong terminal vibrato.

TIME

He frequently uses off-beat phrasing and is very flexible in timing.

PHRASING

Short phrasing like uneducated singing, mostly staccato and often slightly uncontrolled. No romanticism.

This personnel-discography is based on RUST, JAZZ AND RAGTIME RECORDS 1897 - 1942.

Personnels are taken from this source, but modified in the light of earlier or subsequent research or on the strength of my own listening, discussed with our listening group or other interested collectors.

- Documented, most certain and aurally absolutely obvious identifications are listed thus: Ward Pinkett
- Probable, generally agreed, but not documented identifications are listed in italics, thus: Ward Pinkett
- Not attributable identifications – although the musician in question might be an otherwise well-known person – are listed thus: unknown
- If a possible identification for an otherwise unknown musician is suggested by the author without the possibility to prove the factual evidence, it is listed thus: (Ward Pinkett)

When feeling certain without a musician's documented presence, I have not refrained from altering Rust's statements without using italics. In any case, my statements are open to discussion and I would appreciate any contribution - pro or contra!

As always in my discographies on this website I have written recording sessions with their headings, dates, titles and names of musicians in italics, whenever I am convinced that the eponymous musician of this discography is not part of the accompanying group of this session! Documented names of musicians if known – in recording ledgers or on record labels – are listed in bold letters.

This discography still is - and will certainly be - a work in progress for a long time, if not eternally. Yet, on the way to a definite discography of all jazz recordings before 1942 - which certainly will never be possible - it is intended to fill some gaps that have not been treated before.

After Happy Caldwell's statements in Storyville 99 (see below) we might be certain of Thomas Morris, Ward Pinkett, Geechie Fields, Albert 'Happy' Caldwell, Lee Blair and perhaps Bill Benford on these sides.

Thomas Morris is the name-giving leader of the band. He plays first trumpet – i.e. the melody and the first part in the brass section – and he can be discovered playing solos in his own somewhat un-proficient way. For his solos see the structure of the recorded tunes below (Thomas Morris = TM). I assume that Morris' self-confidence as a musician was not very distinct, so that he engaged soloists of better quality than his own.

The much more elegant and securer soloist on trumpet is Ward Pinkett. His presence is documented in Laurie Wright's interview of Happy Caldwell, published in Storyville 99, but very sadly not continued as planned because of Caldwell's death not long after. For a time Rex Stewart had been assumed to be on trumpet, but his style is much straighter and more in Armstrong's style than Pinkett's. Geechie Fields is mainly known from J.R. Morton's Red Hot Peppers sides of June 1928 where he excels in off-beat growl solos. But what a wonderful legato trombonist he is here in the second chorus of his solo in 'Jackass Blues'. An unreckoned but very cultivated and elegant player who also knew how to play "freak". It really is a pity that he often has been misidentified in the past as the executioner for every "primitive" growl playing whose identity was not known.

Then there is an alto/baritone player doubling clarinet of whom I feel unable to propose a name. He is not Ernest Elliott as listed in any discography in the past. In my large investigation as to Ernest Elliott's assumed presence in so many recording sessions I have isolated his very special stylistic features, and these cannot be recognized here. So, he definitely is not present here! Even more so, Happy Caldwell in his interview does not talk of Elliott as participant at all. The two clarinet solos in 'Jackass Blues' display a very queer shaky vibrato – not Elliott's - strong uncertainties of tone and phrase and seem to be played by a man, whose main instrument is saxophone. But then: why did they make him play solo on clarinet? In Verse II of 'Lazy Drag' he plays his first saxophone part so retained – or reluctant – that the tenor sax of Caldwell is much to the fore, the alto only hardly audible and thus the melody (first part) nearly un-audible.

Only in 'Charleston Stampede' Albert 'Happy' Caldwell can be heard on tenor with his somewhat erratic style, beginning phrases and ending them in an absolutely not anticipated way.

The pianist is named as Marlowe Morris, not the noted swing pianist, Thomas Morris' nephew, of 'Swinging The Blues' fame, but – as Caldwell claims – Thomas Morris' uncle, obviously the swing pianist's father. (Rust*6 lists both persons under one single notation in his index.) And it is interesting to note how this player keeps very much in the background and is mostly nearly inaudible, only coming to the fore in take -3 of 'Jackass Blues'. He does not seem to have been an experienced player and no other recordings of him are noted.

Lee Blair with his dry banjo sound seems to be as given. He can also be heard on the J.R. Morton RHP of June 1928, together with Bill Benford, whose presence here, shortly before his sojourn with the 'Blackbirds of 1926' band touring Great Britain, and after his time with the June Clark band at 'Smalls' Sugar Cane Club', seems to be confirmed. He played a straight upright tuba, not a sousaphone.

Pinkett, Fields, and Blair, together with drummer Tommy Benford, later were in Bill Benford's Rose Danceland band from where Morton picked them for recording purposes.

These unfortunately very short musical examples of an early Chick Webb band accompany a dance-contest in a Harlem night club on film. What this fantastic band might have sounded like if recorded with adequate equipment. First issued by John R.T. Davies on his Ristic label, later also on Harlequin HQ 2038 ‘Black Bands on Film 1928 – 1935’.

These two titles are not just straight-ahead jazz performances, but they are distinct – and beautiful – little compositions, by all means, in a sense of – for instance – Duke Ellington’s creations. Composer credits for both items are “Williams”, without any first name. This might have led to the assumption that Spencer Williams, one of the early group of jazz composers (think of ‘Shim-Me-Sha-Wobble’), could be responsible for the authorship – and the piano part here.

For all the years I have listened to these sides – they had been part of a long deleted Swedish EP Pirates 514 – it had been a firm and fixed truth that Louis Metcalf – he very probably also on the following three sessions – was the trumpet player on these titles. But Storyville 2000, p. 121, reports information as to the possible presence of Ward Pinkett on trumpet and on vocal here. And indeed, if you listen closely and without pre-fixed opinion the trumpet sounds do correspond with what we all know of the brilliant Mr. Pinkett. And we also know that Pinkett could be a fantastic growl-man, what can be heard exemplarily in the second title. There is no second trumpet player! The trombonist is Henry Hicks, one of the main-stays of the early Mills’ Blue Rhythm Band. Born in 1904 he played with the Wilberforce Collegians aka Benny Carter’s Savoy Play Boys under Benny Carter’s leadership in 1928/9 – which in itself is a great recommendation – and later joined the Mills’ Blue Rhythm Band to disappear into oblivion in 1934. He was a first class hot soloist, and Snowden certainly became aware of his qualities to hire him for the four sessions of early 1929 dealt with here. Further proof of his importance is Jan Evensmo’s presenting him in his renowned series of “Solographies” – one among only four trombonists in this series.

On the reed instruments we hear the great Charlie Holmes from Boston, later one of the star soloists of the Luis Russell band. At the time of these recordings he certainly also was one of the few highly gifted youngsters on the Harlem jazz scene. He plays alto sax, soprano and clarinet on these three issued sessions, and can be assumed on the unissued ‘Six Scrambled Eggs’ session as well.

As said before, Spencer Williams has been assumed as piano player because of the composer credits of both titles. Yet, the piano bass notes with their shifting of the meter are so decidedly and typically of Cliff Jackson that he himself must be listed as pianist. Most of the discographies – including John Collinson’s in Storyville 147 – assume or agree in Cliff Jackson’s presence as pianist. I myself have to reduce my own assumption a bit because of the lack of Jackson’s otherwise so apparent rhythmic strength. Unfortunately, Spencer Williams can only be found two times in the index to Rust*6: as pianist of the ‘Six Scrambled Eggs’ (see below) and as singer with ‘Freddie Johnson - Arthur Briggs and their All-Star Orchestra in Paris, Farnce, July 1933 (and he very probably was in Europe at about this recording date). This then leaves us without any recorded example of Williams’ piano style, and makes comparing impossible.

On banjo, recognizable by his own personal and very busy banjo style with up-and-down strumming, tremolos and trills – as opposed to the strong and plain rhythm playing of for instance a Dave Wilborn or a Buddy Christian – is Elmer Snowden, he himself sometime the leader of up to five bands at the same time as stated elsewhere.

Bud Hicks is a name only listed once in Rust – for this session – and I am unable to name any band of importance in the Harlem years of which he might have been a member. But he definitely plays with beauty and sensitivity and makes good rhythm. As suggested in Storyville 154 below, you may hear some sort of percussion-strokes on a drum – or a suitcase, or whatever – between the piano solo and the scat vocal (F trio strain) and at the very end of the item. This might have been Mr. Joe Davis himself, who obviously – although not a musician himself - was fond of taking part in the recording sessions he organized.

As it seems this is the same band as before. With some minor alterations possible.

But first of all: This is the same trumpet player as on the foregoing session, thus very probably Ward Pinkett. If you listen to this player's staccato playing and occasional trills and compare it with the Morton Red Hot Peppers of June 11, 1928, you will easily see/hear that this is the same person. And this really is a very surprising realization! For all the years of discography Metcalf had been stated as trumpet player here. But after the note in Storyville 2000, p.121 this certainly cannot be retained. It is my suspicion that Luis Russell when being asked recalled titles he simply did not have played on (see Storyville 146, p.46 below). The record label does not say anything about the musicians (L. Wright, OKeh Race Records). And on hearing these titles - with certainly Charlie Holmes on them - he deduced a personnel from his own band, including himself on piano. But I am convinced that we have Pinkett here. It is the same tone, same sound, same vibrato and same staccato as on the Mortons! Apparently, Russell named Metcalf as he was on the Burning Eight sides at the beginning of Russell's recording career and only 3 months apart from this session. But our trumpet man here does not use Metcalf's squeezed notes, and he plays with more laziness – not as stressed as Metcalf always does.

On trombone we most probably have Henry Hicks again as stated everywhere, and I do not know anything against it, but I have to observe that everything played by the trombone on these two sides might also be played by Higginbotham, only lacking Higgy's little tricks and close trills and his exuberant bounce. No wonder that Luis Russell heard Higginbotham here. But should Higgy be "reading his solos" ? The alto saxophonist is Charlie Holmes again to my conviction. This alto sound is unmistakable. Only on clarinet he obviously was not as skilled as on his main instrument, and you hear typically reduced clarinet playing as from a saxophonist.

Luis Russell recognized himself as piano player and arranger (see Storyville 146, p.46) which certainly led to this record always being reissued under the Luis Russell flag. Yet, a big and severe doubt may be allowed as to this statement. We have so often come to know of musicians' distinctly wrong estimations of their own or other's playing, that I would not be surprised that somebody else is responsible for the piano part here. The short solo on celeste has a bit of Russell's airy piano style, although not of his usual hasty piano playing, and without any distinct reason to leave him out of consideration I shall certainly keep him in the personnel. The time would be that of the building process of the Russell band: there still was no Red Allen and no Pops Foster. And Russell might have been willing to play for another bandleader and get some additional cash. But the arrangements heard here are not in Russell's style as shown on his own later recordings, and I therefore would deny his authorship.

On banjo we have Elmer Snowden the bandleader again.

Rust lists Henry Bass Edwards on tuba throughout. Although I know Edwards as a very skilled and proficient tuba player I also know him to display very short and hart-hitting notes I do not hear on these sides. Lacking any distinct tuba features I therefore would leave him listed in the personnel. Russell claimed Bass Moore – his own tuba player at the time – as bass player.

Finally we hear some sort of drumming (snare-drum, played with brushes) behind the celesta solo. No bass drum, no cymbals. If it was not for the extremely short changing-over from banjo to drum – no beat left out - I would have named Snowden himself as the "drummer", the more so as there are two bars between the end of drumming and the entrance of the banjo again. And just remember that we also had some very few "drum strokes" on the Musical Stevedores session. So, this might have been Elmer Snowden or rather the organizer of the session, Mr. Joe Davis. I do not see any reason to name Kaiser Marshall as in earlier Rusts. Can you imagine star-drummer Kaiser Marshall playing at a session for only half a chorus and without being member of the band? Oh yes, life happens!

Some people claim to hear a tenor sax and even a second trumpet somewhere on these sides. The second trumpet I would exclude instantly, but there certainly are instances where a tenor sax might be suspected. But there are no distinct tenor parts to be heard - and no solos – and any possible tenor part – together with the alto – is played softly by the trombone (for instance part C in the first title).

Unfortunately – and much to my grief – these two sides have been rejected and unissued by the Victor people. And although the Victor vaults have dismissed a whole lot of their own great unissued jazz music in later years, these two sides were not among them, if there perhaps is somebody somewhere who owns them secretly on a test pressing. I'd be very much interested to hear them! It certainly would be interesting where Rust received his information as to the personnel from! And we definitely have to use them with great caution!

007 GEORGIA GIGOLOS (Jasper Davis and his Orchestra)		New York,	Apr. 23, 1929

148465-3	Georgia Gigolo	Har 944-H,	Frog DGF 38
148468-2	It Feels So Good	Har 944-H,	Frog DGF 38

These sides have formerly always been issued under the name of "Jasper Davis and his Orchestra" (see Rust*6 below).

I have my doubts as to the trumpet player now. He probably is the same as before, thus Ward Pinkett, yet not as distinct as before. He is not Metcalf, but I am unable to name anybody else. (The recorded sound is rather bad, unfortunately, caused by Harmony's un-timely use of the acoustic recording equipment !)

On trombone we certainly have Henry Hicks again, this time more distinct than on the Jungle Town Stompers session. He is a marvellous player, legitimate and id-lib, and his unfamiliarity to the public may only be explained by his sudden disappearance in 1934. He was a player of the future.

Charlie Holmes is the reed player again, on alto and on clarinet, as before. As on the Jungle Town Stompers sides no second alto can be discovered, nor any other saxophone. As to the listed name of Charlie Grimes – who, by the way, is Clarence Grimes with the Musical Stevedores - it has to be added that these last two sessions are the only sessions in Rust listed for Charlie Grimes, and that Clarence Grimes did not arrive in New York earlier than 1934 – as for his own documented statement.

The piano player does not solo at all, with the exception of two very short breaks – 1 bar each – in 'It Feels So Good' A8, which does not leave any room for suggesting this player's identity. Three names have been suggested so far - Cliff Jackson, Louis Hooper or J.C. Johnson – but I do not see any reason to attribute what can be heard to any of these names, and I would therefore leave him as unknown.

We certainly hear Elmer Snowden with his own banjo sound.

There cannot be detected anything what might identify the tuba player. He may be Bass Moore, but this association might only be the consequence of the supposed presence of Luis Russell musicians. So, he equally might be someone else.

This Georgia Gigolos session is not as thoroughly arranged as the earlier ones, and thus leaves much more room for ad-lib improvisation than before. It also shows the benefit of Lizzie Miles's presence.

Storyville 1998-9 carries a beautiful and most interesting interview with Gene Mikell by Peter Carr and Al Vollmer which tackles these sides. And nothing more need you know to enjoy this music to the full. Both tunes have arrangements by Benny Carter – 22 years of age at the time – showing his early use of augmented chords.

Bobby Holmes rather than Charlie (to whom he was not related) is the alto, tenor sax is Trenton Harris and the trumpets Ward Pinkett and Wendell Culley. Both tunes are Benny carter arrangements. Gene Mikell, and several other musicians have commented that not only did Bobby and Charlie share their surname, but that their sound was so alike that both were frequently misidentified even by their closest friends when heard broadcasting – a sort of amusement to them both!"

I refer to the comment in the Bubber Miley Disco below which I am following. Only one objection: British drummer Trevor Richards has convincingly pointed to Zutty Singleton as drummer at this session (www.doctorjazz.co.uk/Jelly Roll Morton), and I am following him whole-heartedly. All drumming devices heard clearly point to Singleton as drummer. Ernie Bullock is possibly present on Mamie Smith's session of September, 1924, 'Lost Opportunity Blues' and 'Good Time Ball' as part of Snowden's Orchestra (accompanying band)(see my Mamie Smith list on this website). A photo of Snowden's Orchestra can be found in Perry Bradford's "Born With The Blues", p. 102. Bullock is third from right. The trumpet players from right are: Horace Holmes and Gene Bud Aiken, not Miley as wrongly given!

"There has been a lot of controversy about this session. The personnel above is the one listed in Laurie Wright's "Mister Jelly Lord", except that he and most other discographers have Ward Pinkett unknown (tp). However, we are certain that Ward Pinkett and Miley are on all three Morton sessions from March, 1930. During this period, they were both members of the Henri Saparo Orchestra at Bamboo Inn (Laurie Wright, p.74). In the last few years of his career, Miley's solos were almost exclusively played with a mute, usually a plunger, but on this session we have identified him as playing the open trumpet part on If Someone Would Only Love Me (with his typical timing and inflection of the notes), with Pinkett playing the muted obligato behind him. All other trumpet solos on these titles are by Pinkett. Wilbur de Paris, Omer Simeon and Cozy Cole have all named the mysterious Ernie Bullock on clarinet. In an interview with the French Morton specialist Roger Richard, Cozy Cole said that Bullock was a black musician from New York, a very good one, whom he didn't know well but used to see at the Rhythm Club (Le Point du Jazz, No. 15)." Stylistically Lorenzo Tio might well be the clarinet player. But Happy Caldwell assumed Jerry Blake for this session after hearing these sides with Al Vollmer (see below). Contrary to all discographies before I am unable to hear an additional banjo player. Instead, I hear Morton's right hand on the afterbeats in some places. Can it be that the recording officials saw a banjo brought in by Addison which he then did not use?

My opinion: this is the same personnel as before, with possibly Tio on clarinet. And an additional strong banjo here which can be differentiated best in Ponchatrain Blues, where it plays simultaneously with the guitar under the opening guitar solo notes. The rhythm is much tenser here than on the foregoing session.

Thus: Ward Pinkett, Bubber Miley (tp); Wilbur de Paris (tb); unknown (cl); Jelly Roll Morton (p); unknown (bj); Bernard Addison (g); Bill Benford (bb); Tommy Benford (dr). "The trumpet solo on Fussy Mabel is by Miley, while Pinkett is more prominent in the ensembles. Pinkett plays the first solo on Ponchatrain, Miley the second with growl. If Lorenzo Tio Jr. recorded with Morton, it seems aurally more likely to be on this session than the previous one. The clarinet player on these titles sounds like a well schooled musician, on Fussy Mabel somewhat reminiscent of Tio's disciple Albert Nicholas."

Bubber Miley was Ellington's top ace trumpeter from 1923 on. He obviously was some sort of a lady's man, and it is purported that he was fired from the Ellington band because of his unreliability, as the only person fired by Ellington at all. His "retirement" occurred in January 1929. From then he spent the short remainder of his life working with a row of diverse bands and vaudeville acts without reaching top approval as with Ellington any more. John Chilton in 'Who's Who of Jazz' tells that Miley formed his own band, financed by Irving Mills, in 1931. These sides are from 1930, they are made by a stable personnel, and it is to be asked whether this is the band reported by Chilton. I have been unable to find an answer. The dates of recording would argue against it.

The band consists of top-notch Harlem band musicians known from other well-known bands. But, according to Chilton, none of them is known of having been a fixture with Bubber Miley.

Miley is the foremost soloist, leaving little room and opportunity to de Paris and Pinkett. Happy Caldwell gets even less, but can be heard ad-libbing in short between choruses or in bridges and modulations.

There are a couple of instances where Bernard Addison can be heard accompanying on guitar (see under 'Tunes' below). But, opposed to the statement in the Victor Master Book, which lists both instruments as being played by different persons, I feel unable to hear a banjo behind Addison's guitar. In 'I Lost My Gal From Memphis' I think that Addison plays the first solo spot in chorus 2 on the banjo single-string, and that he later switches to guitar in chorus 3 behind the singer. I do not hear a banjo and a guitar simultaneously – or so I believe. Thus, I dare leave the listed unknown banjo player out. His presence would be too unintelligible. Nobody of the responsible persons would have paid for a guitarist who only played some few short guitar spots, and nothing more. The more so, as Addison was a banjo player from early on. I love to hear Tommy Benford's fancy and imaginative drumming. And his brother Bill's great tuba part, too!

Tommy listened carefully, and then commented: That's definitely me on drums and I'm sure I hear three trumpets on that first date – Bubber is the muted horn and that's Ward playing open. Could be my brother on the first date, but that's definitely not him on the others, Bill only ever played tuba, and it sounds more like Billy Taylor to me. I don't know who the banjo player is."

On Without You Emmaline, we have identified Pinkett in the 8 bars solo passage and the obligato behind Marvin's vocal chorus (almost trying to sound like Miley!), while it is probably Miley in the 16 bars after the vocal."

We have the same band here, with Buster Bailey as clarinet soloist and second (third) altoist. This leaves even less solo space to Caldwell since Bailey was a much more famous and accomplished musician in the Harlem jazz scene.

Again, I do not hear a banjo player behind Addison's guitar in 'Black Maria', but I am rather unsecure in this. And we have a string bass player whose name is not listed and whose person is impossible to identify. According to Tommy Benford (see above) this player might be Billy Taylor.

- Scherman, Eriksson, Anderby, Wallen, Bubber Miley Discography: Bubber Miley, Ward Pinkett (?), and possibly a third unknown (tp); prob Wilbur de Paris (tb); Hilton Jefferson (?), unknown (cl, as); Happy Caldwell (?)(ts); Earl Frazier (p); Bernard Addison (bj); Bill Benford (bbs); Tommy Benford (dr); Edith Wilson (vcl). "The last two sessions under Miley's name are rather difficult to document accurately and have caused a lot of confusion and disagreements among discographers. We think there may be three trumpet players involved in the September 11, 1930 session, although all three don't play simultaneously. On "Loving ...", it is Miley in the obligato part of the first chorus and behind Edith Wilson's vocal. Other discographers have Miley and one unknown (tp), but we think it could be Pinkett after the vocal. The 6 bar trumpet passage just before the vocal seems to be by a different musician, who sounds very much like Henry "Red" Allen. On "The Penalty ...", Miley plays the second trumpet part in the first chorus and the obligato behind the vocal. The brief trumpet passage before the vocal could be by Pinkett. The trombone, clarinet and saxophone players cannot be identified aurally, as there are no solos or prominent ensemble parts for those instruments."

This personnel has two reed players only, probably Hilton Jefferson and Happy Caldwell. Both start 'Loving You The Way I Do' on clarinets, and I assume that we hear Caldwell playing the lead/melody, and Jefferson playing the obligato. Caldwell's tone is sharp and Jefferson's accompanato is more modern in style and fluent than Caldwell's playing. The clarinet obligato behind Edith Wilson in chorus 2 and again in the coda also is in that more modern style – not Dodds derived – and for me by Jefferson. But, lacking documental evidence on Caldwell's development in tone and general style, I am uncertain here. Does anyone interested in reed players want to comment? There is no guitar here on these sides, and thus Addison's presence should be questioned, the more so as Tommy Benford (see above) did not remember Addison's presence and was unable to attribute a name. This might turn out to be true for all these Miley sessions! Can anybody let me know who first assumed Bernard Addison to play on these sides? On bass – tuba and string bass – we possibly have Billy Taylor here again, according to Tommy Benford's testimony.

"In this version of "Loving ...", the first chorus is played by Frazier on celeste, two clarinets and De Paris on trombone, one of the clarinetists plays the obligato behind the vocal in the New Orleans creole style, reminiscent of Barney Bigard. Miley plays the obligato part behind the unknown lead trumpet after the vocal. On "The Penalty ...", Miley plays the second trumpet part in the first chorus."

- Storyville 116-58, Johnny Simmen, Sandy Williams: "As long as 1947, Sandy told me that his first recording date had been with Jelly Roll Morton. He recalled the title 'Gambling Jack' and said that two sides were made on the date. He couldn't remember the title 'Fickle Fay Creep' but did remember the second title as "a slow performance on which I had a long solo." ... In 1961, Sandy called Bernard Addison, the guitarist on the date, and he confirmed the presence of Ward Pinkett, Saddy Williams, Billy Taylor, and Bill Beason. Sandy thought the clarinetist's name was Jo-Jo but Addison said the name was Tio, "a light-skinned coloured man from New Orleans, who, a few years later, died in New York." The trombonist here is certainly not Geechie Fields, by comparison with his other work, but I (J. Simmen – KBR) cannot detect anything characteristic of Sandy Williams."
